EATING DISORDERS ON THE COLLEGE CAMPUS

A NATIONAL SURVEY OF PROGRAMS AND RESOURCES

JUNE 2016

Availability and Frequency of Eating Disorder-Related Services and Programs on College and University Campuses

Study Approved by the Pace University Institutional Review Board

All survey responses were checked for accuracy, as of the time of publication. Updates will be made on an ongoing basis. If you are a staff member of any of the institutions represented and are aware of changes to the service/program availability, please email ddenza@nationaleatingdisorders.org to alert NEDA staff.

The frequency and availability of programs and resources is only provided for those schools that opted into this survey. Other colleges and universities may offer programs and resources, and can request to be added to this listing. Please email ddenza@nationaleatingdisorders.org for additional details.

| University of New Hampshire | We have two eating disorders campus teams who meet regularly to discuss educational efforts and concerns, one devoted specifically to athletes. We have implemented “Reflections” in all of our sororites and are planning to implement in first year residence halls. Once a year, we produce a body image/eating disorders monologue based play titled Inner Beauty, produced, written and performed by students, faculty and staff. |
| University of South Carolina | Body Image Graduate Assistant in Campus Wellness |
| University of Virginia | Student organization that conducts outreach programs/presentations (HOPE) |
| Wayne State College | Referrals from the campus to the Counseling Center are always welcome |
